Tables may be freely cited and reproduced except for commercial purposes. Please do not post them elsewhere on the world wide web.

This ranking is based on the average number of equivalent papers published by a department's top 15 authors. (See methodology on how an author's equivalent papers are calculated.) Anyone outside the top 15 is discarded; if a department has less than 15 publishing authors, its total output is divided by 15. (Hence it is treated as having some unproductive faculty.) The average of all authors (whatever the number) is reported in the "all counted" column.
